

Catapult Venture Managers Limited have invested £500k into Probe Scientific Limited as part of a £1m funding round.

Probe Scientific Ltd is developing innovative disposable blood sampling products to solve clinical problems and improve healthcare.

The company has a substantial product pipeline based on its proprietary technologies and is seeking to commercialise this range. Probe's first product allows for continuous, automated and real time sampling without removing blood from the patient.

Catapult provides equity capital of between £200k and £2m for growing businesses
